SUMMARY.

Peace negotiations between Russia and Japan are in progress. An early suspension of hostilities is expected.

President Roosevelt has been selected as mediator, upon Japan's initiative.

While it is technically true that Russia did not formulate peace conditions, yet she indicated conditions that she cannot accept.

The demand is for an indemnity or the cessation of the war.

France prompted Russia to begin the negotiations.

Court Landau communicated to France Russia's negative conditions.

An advisory war council reported to the Court that the successful issue of the war could not be expected.

There is an impression in high quarters that if the internal situation of Russia improves the prospect of peace will recede.

It is thought that if Japan's conditions are acceptable with regard to the indemnity, the two powers will have to convene a National Assembly to decide for peace or war.

The Harbin to Vladivostock railway has been cut by the Japanese.

The Japanese main army is about 20 miles from the Russian outposts. A Japanese column is 27 miles north-east of Sl-ting-kai.

The Russians have evacuated further stations on the railway in the direction of Keng-ching-ling.

The Russian Commander-in-Chief has exhorted his army to manfully accomplish their sacred duty to the Tsar and the fatherland.

He states he has already repulsed many attacks and enormous losses, and is confident Japan will be unable to recoup Russian value.

He declares that reinforcements are unceasingly arriving, and concludes: "May God help us."

Japan's 44 per cent. loan of £20,000,000, issued at 8%, has been covered twice-fold.

Outrages and riots are reported in all parts of Russia.

Seven thousand peasants at Chernigov, Little Russia, routed a small force of gendarmes which attempted to prevent piling up grain.

Attempts to murder police officials were made at Drisk, Sukhum Riga, and Kremenchug.

A run is beginning on many of the savings banks.

A disgruntled man, when arrested, confessed he was about to make an attempt on the life of General Trepoff.

Ten terrorists, including several of the Inner Circle, have been arrested.

Several posts at St. Petersburg have joined the strike.

The situation in the Caucasus is alarming, especially at Gori, where 3000 peasants, when piling the streets, were fired upon by soldiers, and 10 wounded.

The peasants are compelling landowners to surrender their lands and forests. Many cities have been abandoned.

Military service lists have been destroyed, rendering mobilisation difficult.

A second mobilisation, ill-treatment of the Western Australian natives took place in the House of Commons on Thursday.

Mr. Littleton, Secretary of State for the Colonies, said the Commissioner's report revealed a deplorable state of things, producing a flood of horrors.

We understand the State Government had appointed a Commissioner with a view to full legislation in 1906. He believed his Government was highly anxious to deal with the matter.

A bill authorising the employment of militia in time of war, while safeguarding the rights of the people, was introduced in the second session in the House of Lords.

Lord Kelvin, the eminent scientist, has undergone a serious operation.

The Australian leather now giving satisfaction, and is in good demand.

In 1904 Great Britain's exports increased by £1,000,000 and Germany's by £7,355,000. The United States' exports had declined by £4,646,000.

Last year the trade of the United Kingdom was £781,355,000, Germany £273,174,000, and the United States £212,645,000.

The High Court has refused an application for leave to appeal from the decision of Mr. Justice Firth in the case dealing with the position of the Lord Mayor.

It was held that the decision was unanswerable and no doubt as far as his correctness was concerned.

A small coach capsized on Tuesday night four miles from Adaminaby. Miss Carter, a passenger, was slightly injured.

The Tenterfield coach coming from the Sydney road to Coonabarabran and Sandlands on Thursday night, and was not extricated till daylight.

The Victorian Board of Works finance committee has voted a loan of £16,000 at 4 per cent. at a minimum of 2%.

Captain Wilson, of the steamer Perth, which grounded off Geelong on Tuesday night, states that he made a mistake in the beacon lights.

A girl named Ellen Robinson fell in at St. George, Victoria, on Tuesday, and has consciousness.

The general Jury Court sittings closed yesterday. The Chief Justice will sit on three days next week to dispose of cases remaining in the bench court.

The next term of the year will be opened on May 1, and at the end of the month jury will be again taken.

The case of the Perpetual Trustee Company v. Railway Commissioners, of which Mr. Justice Dwyer presided, was adjourned for loss of royal assent.

Michael O'Brien, hunter at Prince's Bridge Station, Melbourne, was run over by a train yesterday and killed.

Voluntary addresses were delivered in the Arbitration Court yesterday, that being the last sitting of the Court as at present constituted.

The President, Mr. Justice Cohen, said that during the next three the Court had been in existence it had given 100 decisions.

The unions, unless there was some grievance to be remedied, should not seek to impose upon the working conditions which the industry might not be able to stand.

A mass of coal came away from the roof in the Stamford Merthyr colliery, West Maitland, yesterday.

Thomas Tate was killed instantly. George Pringle, who was badly injured, managed to crawl away, and call for help.

A third case of plague has occurred at Newcastle.

The visitors to the Zoological Gardens last year were 14,000. The number admitted with paid passes was 12,021, of whom 85,773 were visitors on Sundays.

Compared with 1904 there was a decrease of 1,024 Sunday visitors, and an increase of 8561 total visitors paid for admission.

Business continued inactive in the Stock and Share market yesterday, when the changes occurred were mostly of an upward character.

On Friday two masked men bound and gagged two employees at Devon Commissaries, Kalganore, stripped plates of the battery, and drove off in a cart.

One of the bound men got free and telephoned to the police, who traced a cart 10 miles into the bush and there made two arrests.

CHAPTER XXX.

A MIDNIGHT MEETING.

Mrs. Carson was graciously pleased with the news, when quite giddy she was in such marked contrast to Peas' irrepressible vivacity.

"I wish Lynne had seen this sister first," said Mrs. Carson, "but I saw her, and Daphne was quite an easy matter to patronise."

Daphne knew by her air of sarcasm or impatience, when such impudence made light of every attempt of Mrs. Carson to form her daughter-in-law to her own ideas of propriety.

Clara also found it pleasant to have a companion who was so adroit and intuitive a listener. She had the remembrance of Pen that had not added to her love for the girl of her brother's choice. Besides, Clara felt her own private regret for disliking Pen, by which she had been overruled, and of course, by which she had responsible for the humilitation she had endured from Jim Hetherington. Pen was her rival, also, in many things than in Clara's dislike was directed against Pen for her popularity.

While Pen was considered the Rose of Neumannia, Clara felt the rose of life, of her rights as reigning beauty of the township.

Daphne's unassuming and simple manner was therefore a great source of delight, and the girls were on very well together.

Daphne was very tired, and was asleep soon after she had lain down on the pillow, and Clara, in spite of her fervent persuasions, took another example before long.

She dozed off, when some sound startled her. She listened with the greatest interest, and clung to the veranda to her mother's door. The boards creaked, the thin roof gave out sounds, and the footsteps occupied the room. The trembling girl rose before him in the darkness, and refused to be banished.

LAND AND POLITICS.

THE SIMS IMPROVEMENT LEASES.

The stories concerning Crown lands administration and the operations of political land agents which have been freely circulated throughout the State for a few months, have been revised through an interesting law case settled in Sydney this week. The transaction, in consequence of which Reuben Simpson Sims sued Arthur David Browne, and Thomas Harvey Browns, trading as J. C. Young and Co., to recover £500 and a promissory note for £100, will probably be of interest to all who are concerned with some in which they have been concerned. Mr. Sims and his relatives desired to have five settlement leases in the Moree district, joined so that residence could be fulfilled for all by the family living on one block. He saw Mr. Harvey Browns, a partner of Young and Co., and asked him if he would be employed. The agent was Mr. W. N. Willis, then a member of the Legislative Assembly, and he arranged to take up the case. A sum of £500 in cash and a promissory note for £100 was handed to Mr. Brown, the understanding being, apparently, that the money was to be used in the event of the proceedings in respect of the leases were unsuccessful. The case went before the land board, and Mr. Sims lost; he appealed, and the appeal was dismissed. Subsequently he demanded his money back from Mr. Brown, and the latter informed him it had been handed over to Mr. Willis. Mr. Sims then went to law, and the opinion of the court was that the parties agreed to a settlement, by which plaintiff secured a verdict for £500.

The case presents some remarkable features to the public. In the first place, the original fee demanded by the agent was £750, and it was said in evidence that when he was due to receive the £500 he demanded that he would receive only £100 out of this apparently rich possession. It would appear also from the evidence that there was a decided difference of opinion between the political agent and the political head of the department on the one hand, and the land board and Land Appeal Court on the other. The former insisted that Mr. Sims and his relatives could be accommodated under the Act with the desired arrangement, by which they would practically have held five settlement leases as one holding. Even after the application had failed before the board and the court, hopes seem to have been held out to Mr. Sims that he would still succeed in his efforts to secure a settlement.

As I have said, there is nothing unfamiliar to men who have secured land under various tenures in the proceedings which led to the engagement of the agent. The testimony of plaintiff that defendant declined to give a receipt for the money deposited, because that was not done in such cases, is true, but the facts are not so clear as to stocks and station agents. As a matter of fact, the usual practice seems to have been for the holder desirous of succeeding in a land matter to communicate with his stock or wool agent, who in turn suggested or saw a political land agent. As a rule, it is said that the stock or wool agent is supposed to do this, though it may be the opposite. In other cases being made, cases have been taken of in which the agent engaged, but these were not cases which came before land boards. In others, it is said, men have paid stiff fees for securing some very ordinary concessions, which could easily have been obtained at a nominal cost, and for which the Lands Department board applied to first hand.

All this has been familiar to people concerned in Crown lands for years past. The case which was tried this week raises no new point of view, but it accentuates those which have been put in evidence in other cases. The "wildlife" many times. If a man is first entitled to Crown lands under certain conditions, why should it be necessary for him to pay a princely fee to a member of Parliament to obtain what should come to him as a just right under the laws of the land? It is quite common, in cases of dispute, for a man to bring his claim properly presented before a land board or a land court. That, however, amounts only to counsel's fees, and counsel is usually satisfied to accept the fee after the hearing, or to take security beforehand. Quite a different procedure seems to have been the rule where the political agent was the intermediary. According to the evidence in Sims v. Brown, it was deemed necessary that the large sum of £500 and security for £100 should be lodged before the business could be undertaken. Then Mr. Sims appears to have trouble in coming to terms with the man. He had half a hundred interviews with him, and after that it appears that he tried to secure an alteration in certain conditions of land tenure he enters upon a tremendous undertaking. The most important aspect of the whole business is the hearing of such a case of dispute settlement, and the State. Possibly he should not be allowed to be a member of Parliament he should not be debarred from acting as an agent between the Crown and a settler or would-be settler. Beneath this surface view, however, lies the consideration of the influence of the man who has had under his care a number of men who have sought suitable land suitable for farm and station holdings. For the credit of the Administration and its political heads, this point should certainly be cleared up by the Royal Commission.

It is quite common in Goldsborough, Mort, and Cawdron recently issued report, February 28, and for that twelve months the quantity of land sold in the State totals £45,827 per annum. This is a sum which is not likely to be more than £100,000 per annum. The statement made above is based on the figures given in the report, and it is evident that a man of the same name has had under his care a number of men who have sought suitable land suitable for farm and station holdings. For the credit of the Administration and its political heads, this point should certainly be cleared up by the Royal Commission.

It will thus be seen that the Sydney market for land for close on 50 years past has totalled, all other Australian centres disposing of £45,827 less, against Sydney's £49,058.

It is quite common in Goldsborough, Mort, and Cawdron recently issued report, February 28, and for that twelve months the quantity of land sold in the State totals £45,827 per annum. This is a sum which is not likely to be more than £100,000 per annum.

It will thus be seen that the Sydney market for land for close on 50 years past has totalled, all other Australian centres disposing of £45,827 less, against Sydney's £49,058.

The principal decision was that the statement made above is based on the figures given in the report, and it is evident that a man of the same name has had under his care a number of men who have sought suitable land suitable for farm and station holdings. For the credit of the Administration and its political heads, this point should certainly be cleared up by the Royal Commission.

POULTRY.

All questions relative to fancy or commercial poultry keeping, diseases, etc., should be addressed to "A. H. H. Herald" office.

W. W.—If your purpose is solely eggs, the Mediterranean breeds will give you best results. Orpingtons and Leghorns are required; indeed, some strains of the latter will lay as many eggs as either Leghorns or Mawsons. Hatchery birds are the best, as they lay eggs on one day of occasional occurrence, but such hens are less valuable than those which lay two or even three eggs every day. The two or three frequently between some ovarian trouble, and the fact of their being moulting is evidence of some disarrangement.

Poultrymen are reminded by advertisement of the incoming steamer Morawa that the arrival of the birds of both Orpingtons and Partridge Wyandottes at the end of April will be followed by a number of imports required, and it is to be hoped that the importations would approach the numbers that actually arrived.

The steamer reached the wharf about 10 a.m. on Monday morning, and the birds were brought to an enormous crowd of fanciers, all anxious to view the various specimens, of which glowing reports had been received from London. In the last few days the consignment consisted of a large number of Silver Wyandottes, Gold ditto, and Partridges, White, Tan, and Buff, and Buff Orpingtons. The majority of the fowls were of excellent merit, and fully up to expectations. Mr. Charles D. Thompson, of the Morawa, reported a number of exhibition quality, and in fit condition to put in any show position.

The pens of good hens for Mr. W. R. Doyle were of good size, excellent type, and remarkably well constructed. Oliver's Wyandottes were also on board. Mr. T. Holley received a number of Silver Wyandottes, which embody all the qualities of exhibition specimens.

A Partridge Wyandotte came to this breeder is considered the best specimen of the breed that has yet reached Australia. This bird was third in the show, and was shown by his full brother to the one which last year was sold for £150. Messrs. Thompson and McDowell noted a number of white hens, and buffs of this breed, all good, two brown hens, especially so. The Plymouth Rock was also shown, and Wyandottes little better than the original. A number of Silver Silvers were of but little note, and possibly due at freight charges alone. There were but few daws, and a number of small cockerels, mostly of white, browns, and buffs of this breed, all good.

Dear Mr. Cliburn.—Please accept my thanks for curing my foot, which had tormented me for over four years.

I am a shoe-fitter, and have been unable to consult you, and I feel that I cannot do less than thank you for the great service you have rendered me.

TELLING TESTIMONY FROM PADDINGTON.

Gordon-street, Paddington, Sydney.

Dear Mr. Cliburn.—I am indeed obliged to you for the time you have given quite to my knee.

It had been impossible for him to walk across from his house to me without his stick, which it was a misery for him to use. His condition was due to a visit to Mr. R. Cliburn, the famous surgeon, who, after examining him, pulled his dislocated hip and knee-joints straight. I consider the result marvellous, and the doctor remains with us, and is still in good health.

As evidence of the great service he did, I am sending him a guinea.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT THE MEDIATOR.

EARLY SUSPENSION OF HOSTILITIES EXPECTED.

MANCHURIAN CAMPAIGN.

RAILWAY TO VLADIVOSTOK REPORTED CUT.

GENERAL LINIEVITCH'S EXHORTATION.

It is reported that peace negotiations are in progress.

President Roosevelt is mediator.

An early suspension of hostilities is expected.

The French press asserts that the Japanese have cut the railway to Vladivostok.

THE NEGOTIATIONS.

RUSSIA'S NEGATIVE CONDITIONS.

LONDON, March 31.

The "Times" correspondent at St. Petersburg learns from unimpeachable sources that Russia and Japan have selected President Roosevelt to act as mediator, and that peace negotiations are already in progress.

As early suspension of hostilities is expected.

President Roosevelt was selected as mediator upon Japan's initiative.

While it is technically true that Russia did not formulate conditions of peace, yet she indicated conditions that she cannot accept, namely, the payment of an indemnity or the cession of territory.

WAR COUNCIL'S DECISION.

An advisory War Council, consisting of General Grodkeoff, Komarov, and the Grand Duke Nicholas, reported to the Czar that a successful issue to the war could not be expected.

Count Lansdorff communicated to France Russia's negative conditions.

France prompted Russia to begin the negotiations.

RUSSIA'S ALTERNATIVE.

There is an impression in high quarters that if the internal situation of Russia improves the prospect of peace will decline.

It is thought that if Japan's conditions are unacceptable with dynastic considerations, the Government will be compelled to convene a National Assembly to decide for peace or war.

A FRENCH REPORT

THE WAR TO CONTINUE.

The Paris "Picard" states that the Czar, overruling M. Witte, President of the Committee of Ministers, and Commander-in-Chief, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, with the minority of the Foreign Committee and the Grand Ducal party in favour of the continuance of the war.

The hope of the Grand Dukes centres in Admiral Bieloborskiy.

A fourth Russian squadron is preparing to sail.

JAPANESE SUCCESSES.

FURTHER RUSSIAN RETREAT.

VLADIVOSTOK RAILWAY CUT.

St. Petersburg advises to French newspapers that the Japanese have cut the Berlin to Vladivostok railway.

The Japanese main army is 30 miles to 20 miles from the Russian outposts.

There is a Japanese column 27 miles to the north-east of Siping-kat.

The Russians, it is reported, have evacuated further stations on the railway in the direction of Kung-chu-lung (northward) of Teling and Kai-yuen.

LINEVITCH'S EXHORTATION.

APPEAL TO RUSSIAN VALOUR.

General Linevitch, the Russian Commander-in-Chief in Manchuria, has exhorted his army to manfully accomplish their duty to the Czar and the fatherland.

He states that he has already repulsed many serious attacks with enormous losses, and is confident that the Japanese will be unable to resist Russian valour.

He declares that reinforcements are源源不断地 arriving, and concludes, "May God help in the coming battle."

JAPAN'S LOAN.

COVERED TWELVEFOLD.

The "Times" says that the Japanese 4% loan of £100,000,000, issued at 90 per cent., bore of £100,000,000, issued at 90 last quoted at £115 premium, has been covered twelvefold.

COMMENTS ON THE SITUATION.

The "Times" correspondent in St. Petersburg furnishes evidence that points to an early suspension of campaigning. Such might come by a direct communication from Russia to Japan, or through a mediator. He writes that the most likely personage to be the channel of communication between the two nations is the most trustworthy of the Czar's Ministers, who have advised him to sue peace, and the military advisory committee, which includes a Grand Duke and a general-in-chief, has given similar advice. The intimations in to-day's cables justify the guarded interpretation of the previous message that Russia had submitted no conditions of peace. On the face of the assurance that Russia would not pay any sum to cede territory, any negotiations for peace would appear to be doomed to failure, but Russian diplomacy has always been remarkable for "bluff," and once the Slavs begin to haggle the chances are that he will gradually give way.

As Russian pride cannot tolerate an inferior position, the opinion of Japan on the eastern seaboard is that the most important can be made that will satisfy Japan; Russia is defeated, and, despite the spirited appeal of Linevitch, is destined to another reverse unless the war comes to a standstill.

THE BROADMEADOW TRAGEDY.

SUPPOSED CASE OF MURDER.

BLOODSTAINED AXE DISCOVERED.

GLEN INVER, Friday.

The coroner, Mr. A. Martin, is at Dalmerton, holding the inquest into the facts relating to the death of William Macaulay, whose body was found hanging from a tree, which lead to the conclusion that the man had met with foul play.

The inquest was re-opened on Tuesday evening, and the coroner's jury returned a verdict of "wilful murder."

The coroner was reported to-night to be progressing favourably, but Macaulay's wife came to hand and said that such certificates would also be accepted.

THE PLAGUE AT NEWCASTLE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The suspicious case referred to yesterday was pronounced to-day by Dr. D. G. Campbell, a surgeon named Robert King aged 19, and residing in Darley-street.

He was removed to the hospital on Wednesday, and is in the intensive ward under Dr. Parfitt.

The latter was reported to-night to be progressing favourably, but Macaulay's wife came to hand and said that such certificates would also be accepted.

THE PLAGUE AT NEWCASTLE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The suspicious case referred to yesterday was pronounced to-day by Dr. D. G. Campbell, a surgeon named Robert King aged 19, and residing in Darley-street.

He was removed to the hospital on Wednesday, and is in the intensive ward under Dr. Parfitt.

The latter was reported to-night to be progressing favourably, but Macaulay's wife came to hand and said that such certificates would also be accepted.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

Friday Evening.

A quiet tone continued to prevail in the Stock and Share market. To-day's trading was not so active as last week, but there was no real sign that there was want of a better name for the market than "Investing public," while as far as the mining side of the market was concerned, the too great proportion of the market reported merely represented the transactions of jobbers.

How long this indisposition to give the fund of investment money will continue is of course impossible to conjecture. Those immediately concerned chiefly attribute the drowsiness to legislation existing and passed that injuriously affects business, and creates a feeling of want of confidence.

There are perhaps other causes operating in the same direction, though they are not so evident. The wool clip was an improvement on its predecessor in bulk, and good prices were realized.

The following comparison may be made:

NEW SOUTH WALES REVENUE IN MONTHS.

Month.	Coin.	Unchained.
January	$7,000,000	12,000,000
February	7,000,000	12,000,000
March	10,000,000	12,000,000
Total	20,000,000	36,000,000

To date, 1904 ... $40,532 ... $57,000 ... $17,00.

The New South Wales revenue returns for March give the receipts as $1,058,427, a decrease of $1,000,000 from the amount received in the corresponding month a year ago.

From the beginning of the financial year the following comparison may be made:

NEW SOUTH WALES REVENUE IN MONTHS.

The wheat market has been very quiet for so long that it is difficult to say what is wanted.

There is an irresponsible investing public,
